New security systems, integral solutions and innovations in an all-inclusive selection for doors

This autumn, the ASSA ABLOY group member company from Richterswil will surprise visitors with an innovative joint trade fair presentation for the KESO, IKON and effeff brands. Integrated, comprehensive concepts and solutions for doors will be showcased for the first time. It's worth visiting for a whole host of reasons.

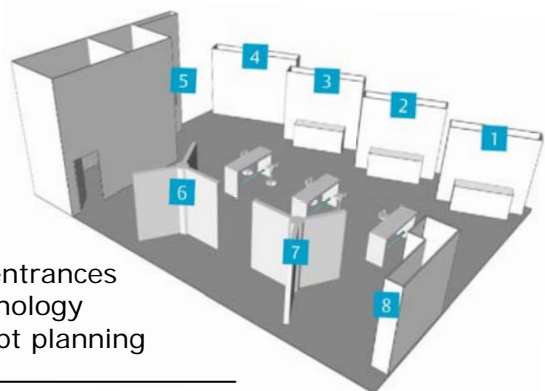

KESO's new management software k-entry® is making its debut and clearly shows how management of mechanical, mechatronic and electronic locking components can be combined in a single system. An additional impressive presence is offered by the latest network solutions from the KESO KEK range. The KESO brand is also showcasing proficient precision mechanics with optimum product mix depth.

effeff is presenting new products for its multi-point locking systems: its new door strike model range and latest escape door strike will give professionals in the sector something to talk about. The IKON brand is showcasing its VERSO CLIQ active technology with a new, broad model range plus web-based software. The effeff brand's Mediator solution affords greater convenience and security in apartment buildings. A new development is the extensive product portfolio, which ensures this well-conceived system is now virtually unrivalled.

As a single-source provider, KESO ensures that optimum compatibility and functionality are guaranteed at all times. Complementary new additions perfect the overall range and increase the diversity of modern applications. Also on offer are new services and tools for door and locking system concept planning. Visit us at Sicherheit 2009, the security industry trade show, and see for yourself.
